• They are interested in a certain research subjects that are being offered by the professors from University of Regina. • If [researcher] is interested in a certain subject, [they] want to see if the University of Regina is doing similar things related to that subject.

• All the researches which are being put on the website should be of latest recent projects that are still active. It will help if the researches are broken down into their own (subsections by program instead of year and \professors.

 Not much undergrad research/ project/lab because they said they are not interested. Maybe final year students research would be better for researchers.

Insight

• They told us they want to be able to go to the Engineering public website and start looking for the researchers that they took an interest in without getting lost and confused.
